

In October, Upper Canada College invited the candidates from our riding, Toronto—St. Paul's, to debate in assembly. The Hon. Dr. Carolyn Bennett (Liberal Party), Mr. Jae Truesdell (Conservative Party), Dr. Alok Mukherjee (New Democratic Party), and Ms. Sarah Climenhaga (Green Party) spoke to students and faculty on issues concerning the economy, social justice, and climate change.

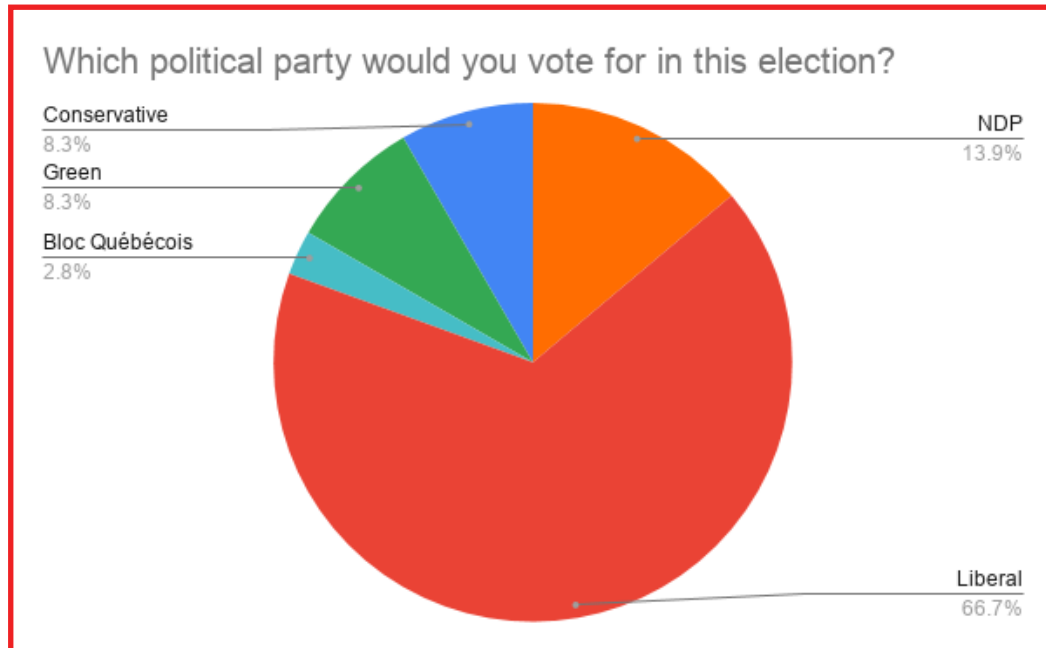

After the debate, the student body voted in a mock ballot that was sent to the school. Convergence obtained the results; nearly 500 Upper School students voted.

Last week, Convergence sent out a survey to the faculty and see whether their opinions matched those of the student body. Convergence received 36 responses—35 respondents indicated that they intended to vote in the 43rd Canadian election.

In an optional question, some teachers did mention that they were voting strategically, hence the difference between the results of questions 1 and 2.
